

19 Cars Sold Saturday

Nineteen new and used cars were sold here Saturday by Perry County's new and authorized car dealers during the opening of the mammoth "You Auto Buy Now" sales drive.

The campaign is continuing throughout this week at the individual garages.

Dealers were unanimous today in expressing a favorable reaction to the sale. The results, Saturday, were in direct contrast to sales reports here over the past few weeks.

Dealers also indicated they believe the sale has breathed new life into car sales here. Saturday's sale and anticipated sales for this week could possibly unload any surplus of cars on the Perry County used and new car market.

This week is "Auto Buy Week" in Perry County, proclaimed as such last Wednesday by Mayor Douglas Combs.

Saturday's sale brought at least one car or truck sale for every dealer.

Customers also walked off with a variety of prizes and were served refreshments donated by the East Ky. Beverage Co., the Royal Crown Co. and the Coca Cola Bottling Works.

Saturday's "Auto Buy" results indicate that Hazard's campaign will outstrip those conducted in other cities.

Dealers participating in the sales promotion this week are Baker Buick Co., Gene Baker Ford and Mercury, Lee Crutchfield Chevrolet and Cadillac, Colwell Motors Dodge and Plymouth, Davidson Motor Co. Pontiac and International Harvester, Fallon's DeSoto and Plymouth, Faulkner's Oldsmobile and Rambler, and Seale Motor Co.'s Chrysler and Plymouth.

The sales campaign will continue through Saturday at the individual garages of the above named dealers.

Home Plans

The Hazard Herald's new feature on home plans will be found in today's paper. If your planning to build or just "window-shopping," you'll find the home series a good reading habit. You'll enjoy the home plans—and remember, they're available to you if you are interested.

The HomeOGraph home plans are a feature offered by General Features through the Hazard Herald. The homes are economically priced for the middle income families.

Judge Asks Jury To Investigate Delinquency Here

"Juvenile delinquency" this morning was a problem to be coped with by the grand jury by Circuit Court Judge Courtney C. Wells.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge Wells cited juvenile delinquency as a major problem here in Hazard as well as the rest of the "State and Nation."

Judge Wells noted:

"Most of the teenagers brought before this court have never been inside a church, their parents have never taken them to Sunday School or to Church."

Judge Wells said it is the duty of parents to "accompany" their children to Sunday School and Church, and not merely to "send them."

He said: "If the parents would take them—not send them—take them" to church, and "send them" to public schools, we would have very little juvenile delinquency" in Perry County.

"What we can do for these parents and teenagers," he continued, "other than try them, I don't know."

Judge Wells called on parents to stop "coddling" juveniles, and for "fathers and mothers to do their duties" as parents.

He said that while he did not like trying juveniles, they must be made to "understand that they must obey our laws or they pay the penalty."

The 12-man grand jury was formed this morning before 9:30 and had retired by 10. Foreman is Lee Crutchfield, Hazard automobile dealer.

Commenting on forest fires, Judge Wells noted that he had been informed by the Division of Forestry that over 1,100 acres of Perry County forest lands had been burned over since January.

He noted: "I'm of the opinion that most of our fires are started intentionally."

"Our forest," he elaborated, "are one of our principal assets. Most of our land is not fit for anything but forests. They ought to be protected."

"I cannot understand how anybody can set fire to them just to see them burn."

Judge Wells indicated he hopes the grand jury could recommend something constructive in the way of forest fire prevention.

Prisoners May Be Jailed Elsewhere

The Perry Circuit Court may send county prisoners into an adjoining county for safekeeping unless something is done about the county jail, Circuit Court Judge Courtney C. Wells said today.

In his charge to the grand jury this morning, Judge Wells said the jailbreaks "seem to have a habit of coming just before a term of court."

Judge Wells said he was not blaming Perry County Jailor Charles Maggard for the condition of the jail. He noted that the jail has been in bad condition for sometime and that Maggard cannot be held accountable for the condition.

Judge Wells advised the grand jury that they again look into the condition of the jail, and suggest to the Perry County Fiscal Court that they again look into the condition of the jail.

Since January, there have been four jailbreaks, the latest in April when 6 prisoners beat up two guards and made their way out a side door after sawing through the roof of their cage. Three have since been recaptured.

Judge Wells noted today that the condition of the jail only last week brought a recommendation from the Perry County Bar Association that the county consider building a combination jail and courthouse.

Write for the Herald; Win Vacation

A Florida vacation can be won by rural correspondents who write regularly for the Hazard Herald.

The vacation trip, for two, includes 7 days at the fabulous Sarasota Springs Hotel, luxury resort, and transportation to and from Florida. Second prize in the contest is a vacation for two at a Kentucky State Park.

The contest is open to correspondents from the county only. Persons who desire to enter contests should contact the Herald not later than June 15. Correspondents already writing for the paper are automatically entered unless they request that they be withdrawn. No entries will be permitted from communities already represented in the pages of the Herald. Only one correspondent will be allowed from each community. Correspondents will be judged on the extent of their new coverage and regularity of reporting. Writing ability does not enter into the judging, since the Herald staff edits and rewrites copy.

Four Prisoners Recaptured

Four of the six men who escaped the Perry County Jail on Apr. 24 have been recaptured. County Sheriff Paul Amis reported today.

Still at large are Marcus Stacy Jr., and Donald Stacy, brothers charged with breaking and entering.

The six escaped the Perry County jail by sawing through the roof of their cage and overpowering two turnkeys.

The escape led to the shooting of Truman Engle by police officers. Engle died last week of gunshot wounds.

By-pass Route Topic For Talks

A "four-lane by-pass" highway for the City of Hazard will be the topic of discussions tomorrow in Frankfort between Dr. Robert Martin, State Highway Commissioner, George Hubeley, Commissioner State Department of Economic Development, and Dewey Daniel, president, People's Bank.

Daniel said this morning that the three will take up the proposed "Green Belt Line." The route will run from Combs, two miles southwest of Hazard, to Glomaw, three miles east of Hazard, following the top of a mountain which faces the business section of the city.

Daniel said this morning the road "will open up an entire new industrial and residential area" for the community. Daniel, chairman, State Republican Central Committee, said the idea for the road was first advanced here following the flood last year in a survey conducted by the Department of Economic Security.

He said it has since been endorsed by the Eastern Kentucky Planning Commission as the project for immediate attention.

Daniel noted the road will open up land which can be economically developed into subdivisions set aside for industry, or both. Land prices here are high because of a scarcity of building sites.

Court Orders Officials To Pay Own Phone Bills

Perry County officials have been ordered by the Fiscal Court to pay their own telephone bills and to file a claim with the county for reimbursement.

The action apparently stems from a recent discovery by the court that at least one official had been charging the cost of his home phone against the county.

Graduating from the U. S. Naval Academy next month will be Midshipman First Class James W. Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess E. Reynolds, 317 Laurel St., Hazard. Reynolds will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force and will be

Jesse Stuart, Commencement Speaker For HHS

Jesse Stuart, Kentucky's foremost author, will be the principal speaker for graduation exercises of Hazard High School seniors at Memorial Gymnasium, Friday night.

Announcement that Mr. Stuart, one of the nation's foremost public speakers and an educator-author constantly in demand for speaking engagements, was made here today by Principal H. M. Wesley.

The noted author was only recently honored as the subject for Ralph Edwards' television series, "This is Your Life."

A native of W-Hollow, five miles from Riverton, Ky., Stuart is the author of numerous poems and books, the latest "The Year of My Rebirth," a vivid story on his recuperation from a heart attack. His most famous collection of poems is the series, "Most With a Bull-Tongue Plow."

A native of Eastern Kentucky, Mr. Stuart symbolized in this State the need for better teachers and educational facilities, and the pressing need for better conservation practices. A farmer, he is also a former county school teacher and principal.

The telephone regulation, passed unanimously by the court, was proposed by Magistrate Estill Pollard and second by Burnam Thomas.

In other action last week, court also officially rejected the offer by the Office of Civil Defense to settle the county's $91,000 flood disaster claim for approximately $23,000.

The disputed claim is now under survey by Civil Defense officials. An announcement is expected in the near future on the points of difference between what the county is claiming and Civil Defense is offering.

Court also approved a 10 cents per $100 tax rate for public health in the county.

Members set aside the following current checks against the county, pending a survey of the claims: Green B. Brashear, $25; Homeplace Hospital, $100; Anderson Service Station, $17.31; William O. Laslie, $1,68.96; Alvo O. Hollon, $250; Mine Service Co., $460.85; Highway Drainage Pipe, Inc., $1,142.40; and Hurricane Gap Quarries, $551.08.

Court also set aside the following outstanding checks against the county. All checks were issued prior to June, 1955.

Unidentified, $266; Waller Turner, $30; Eliza Halcomb, Mahala Jones, Elta Owen, Martha Griffith, Johnnie Griffith, Cora Daniel, Polly Napier, Jackie Combs, Rhoda Noble, Noppie Napier and Verna Sizemore, each $37.50; Dr. C. B. Combs, $3; Melvin Taylor, $14.40; Harvey Recreational Hall, $5; Shirley Sue Dobson, Fay Roberts, Allie Stacy and Chelsea Sumner, each $8; Harvey Marcum, $2; Kenyon Auto Store, $160; Ivan McIntosh, $12; Sterling Hardware, $38.70 and $4.50.

City Industry Would Benefit Under Senate-passed Bill

Nine industrial areas in Kentucky—as well as 35 of the state's poorer rural counties—would benefit under a bill passed by the Senate this week.

Kentucky, in fact, would be one of the chief beneficiaries among the states. The so-called "depressed-areas" legislation calls for $375,000,000 in federal grants and loans. It would go to sections which have been under the economic weather for the past several years.

Kentucky's Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper was a sponsor of the bill, known as the Douglas-Payne Area Redevelopment Bill. It passed the Senate, 46 to 36, late Tuesday.

Kentucky Republican Thruston B. Morton joined in voting for it.

Similar Bills In House

Brent Spence of Fort Thomas and Carl D. Perkins of Hindman, Kentucky Democrats in Congress, have introduced similar measures in the House.

The House Banking and Currency Committee, headed by Spence, will begin closed-door discussions of this and other "recession" bills May 29.

Kentucky's nine industrial areas eligible for aid under the Senate-passed measure have all had at least 6 per cent unemployment for the past four years.

They are Corbin, Frankfort, Hazard, Madisonville, Middlesboro-Harlan, Morehead-Grayson, Owensboro, Paintsville-Prestonsburg, and Pikeville, Ky.-Williamson, W. Va.

Ranges From 6 to 13.5 Pct.

Figures from last fall showed the unemployment figures ranged from 6 per cent in Owensboro to 13.5 per cent in Pikeville-Williamson.

The 35 rural Kentucky counties that would be helped are:

Adair, Breathitt, Butler, Carter, Casey, Clay, Clinton, Cumberland Edmonson Elliott, Estill, Floyd, Grayson, Greenup, Jackson Johnson, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Lee, Magoffin, Menifee, Metcalf, Monroe, Morgan, Owsley, Pike, Powell, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Rowan, Russell, Wayne, Whitley and Wolfe.

Only three states have a larger number of counties on the eligible list. These are Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee.

315 Counties Most Needed

Nationally, 315 counties were chosen as most needed on the basis of low farm standards of living and low income from farming.

The level-of-living classification was based on such items as percentages of farms with electricity, telephones, and automobiles.

A Department of Agriculture study shows that in 1954 Kentucky had four counties where fewer than one in 50 farms had a telephone. These were Clinton, Lawrence, Lee, and Rockcastle.

In Lee County only one farm in nine had an automobile in 1954. In six other counties—Clinton, Estill, Jackson, Morgan, Owsley, and Wolfe—fewer than one farm in three had a car.

Had 660,813 In 1950

The 35 Kentucky counties had a population of 660,813 in 1950. They contained 25,951 commercial farms with gross sales totaling less than $2,500 each in 1954.

River City

Ashland, largest and most important city in Eastern Kentucky, is concentrated on a rather high and wide flood plain of the Ohio River.

Site of Education

Covington in 1847, had two leading educational institutions—the Western Theological College and Dr. Orr's Female Seminary. The Seminary stressed good manners and deportment, graduating the students by exacting a Victorian courtesy, with a low bow, not a nod as was the custom in those days.

State-County Raid Knott Man's Home

A Knott County man was arrested by State Police, Friday afternoon, for possession of whiskey in a local option territory.

Arrested was Ed Napier, of Lackey at his home by State Police Trooper Jerry Combs, deputies from the Knott County Sheriff's office, and A. B. C. Agent Curt Hall found 18 one-half pints of whiskey, 2 one-half pints of vodka, five one-half pints of Gin and 55 cans of beer at Napier's home.

Station Wagon Production Is Increased To Keep Pace With Outdoor Living Trend

The American trend toward outdoor living has created special needs for transportation and caused a significant change in the planning of automobile manufacturers. As a result, we may expect to see more and more station wagons on the highways during the next few years.

The ranks of participants in outdoor activities have swelled tremendously in the past decade. To keep pace with their demand for rugged, dual-purpose automobiles with greater cargo capacity, the automobile manufacturers have continually increased their production schedules for station wagons.

Since Plymouth first introduced the all-metal Suburban in 1949, popularity of station wagons in total U.S. car output has been doubling every three years. Observers now believe that in a very short time one out of every five cars bought in the U.S. will be a station wagon.

The needs of the outdoorsman have been carefully considered in the design of the modern wagon. Plymouth, for example, mounts the spare tire in the fender well of some of its sub-urbans so that the sportsman will not have to unload all of his gear to get at his spare in case of a flat. Area where the tire would normally go becomes a locked, hidden compartment for storage. A rear-facing third seat helps keep youngsters amused on long trips. Many campers have found the lowered tailgate on station wagons a convenient place for preparing meals in the outdoors, and so Plymouth has also located the disappearing rear window within the tailgate so camp cooks will not crack their heads against the old-fashioned station wagon rear window while preparing meals.

May 1775—FIRST LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY IN KENTUCKY
Almost two decades before Kentucky became a State, delegates from the various Kentucky settlements assembled at Boonesborough on May 23, 1775. The convention was called by Col. Richard Henderson, leader of the Transylvania Company. It was held out in the open under a huge elm near the Kentucky River. Courts of justice were set up, and many fine laws were passed to help maintain order.
In Kentucky's historic past, just as today, many of our citizens have always enjoyed a glass of beer. The brewing industry makes jobs for thousands of our residents. The sale of this light, bright beverage of moderation under orderly conditions is an important objective of the United States Brewers Foundation. Our continuing educational program helps beer retailers maintain their high standards.

Stiles JEWELER

Through all this bad weather we have had this SPRING which has hampered not only your fishing but your gardening. I know it has for me. Few days ago WILLIS BAKER from over Big Creek way was in, buying few gardening seed. Another man stepped up and asked if a certain type of bean was tough. Willis replied that he had found tough beans all along—the same way when he was a young man, when he got into a fight that now and then he found a tough man. Roy Baker, Buge (Tony) Combs, Jim Lunce, reports a nice catch down Norris Way. Rufus Smith, Sam Garnett says that the bass are beginning to take top water baits. Boys, I would say this is the best fishing of all when they start to surface. Be prepared when this really gets under way. If you have never done any of it, I would say you have really been missing something.

This date, the lakes are all too full, so don't be disappointed if you don't make a killing. I would say, just walking the banks would produce as many as any other way. Of course it is harder work than fishing from a boat. Understand that we have a new-comer to the ranks of our pastime, none other than our Hon. Mayor Douglas Combs. Understand that he asked a dyed in the wool fisherman what type plugs he should buy for suckers, it seems that Doug had heard of the suckers getting ready to shoal. Doug, don't let this worry you, there is a time and place for everything. Also time for a person to learn all the habits of the finny tribe. I am sure that you will gain a lot by taking up fishing in more ways than space at this time will permit me to say. "Here's Luck To You In Your New Adventure." As a rule the beginner is always the luckiest. Just be patient, it will help you forget many a worry that you have at City Hall.

TIME MARCHES ON

I know it was a great shock to you many readers of the passing of C. H. Combs, yes father time makes his collection, but sometimes I wonder why such men as C. H. had to be among his gatherings. Many of a long talk I have had with Mr. Combs. Boys, he was a devoted man to all and to the area that he lived. He was interested in everything that would help make for a better County and City, he was civic-minded, wanted to see Eastern Kentucky and the whole State prosper. He looked forward to any type development that could help us, he didn't pull his punches when he favored any project, which he knew that many would profit from it. He believed in conservation of our natural resources; he believed in our industry to help; he believed in living and let live. He believed in a good government all the way from Washington to our City government. He was interested in the things that could do the most, regardless of where the chips should fall. Folks, to me he was the type man that we could use many more like him. To this bereaved family, I would like to say in behalf of all his friends in expressing our sorrow to you. We realize that your loss has been great. May the Good Man above provide the encouragement that you will need in months to come.

NICE HEARING

From you, Mrs. Ida Combs down Cincinnati, Ohio way. Sure hope your beans do well this year, also your peas. I would advise you to save some seed from them. It looks like a lot of the old time seeds are running out, or maybe should say they sure got very low this year. Also, to you Mrs. John Hamilton, 72 years young. She says she is now beating the red birds up each morning. Mrs. Hamilton, I would say that you are getting up before four o'clock. Also, to you Mrs. Gabe Brashers from up Viper Ky., way, glad to talk with you again. Sorry to learn that Gabe is not doing too well. I am sure that with this sunshine that we are having, should start him on the mend again. Few messes Polk Sallet is all that I would recommend for him, along with a couple of fishing trips with those grandsons, that should straighten him out. Also, from you Uncle Jim Fields down Typo way, nice talking to you again, also to your daughter-in-law, Mrs. Walter Fields from the same area. Uncle Jim, I know you are proud of the little girl which, of course, is a great granddaughter. I hadn't seen her since she was only about two months old, until a few days ago. You know, time really goes by. The last time I saw her was a week or so after Verdine Fields and I came to Walters house and set out those trot lines. I am sure you can remember. Sometimes I really feel ashamed of myself, because we kept their family up most of the night. But Walter came down to the river and made us come in because it had started to pour the rain. Never will I forget that night. I would be afraid to say how many fish we would have caught, if it had not turned into a thunderstorm. Also, nice hearing your favorable remarks DAUGH HARDIGREE. Folks I guess without a doubt that Daugh has had as much experience in the mining of coal as any other in our field. Here's luck to you Daugh.

Speaking of the coal fields, reminds me of a story I once heard. The Boss of this particular crew that was working in the mines, advised his boys if they came in not feeling too well, he only asked them to get up and act that they were under a strain. Folks, to me going underground, I would not be needed any advice to get into a strain. Believe me I would already be under that strain. To our boys that dig a lot of coal from our hills, fellows they are due a lot of credit, they buy their licenses for both hunting and fishing. Records have proven this. What would happen if the Companies they work for would make some effort to establish something worthwhile for their employees. As I see it, it could make better working conditions, such as getting their men out to work, giving their kids something to do while their dads are at work. Improving our streams instead of polluting them. To me industry can only take so much from our resources, then it will fall back on them. Why not cooperate it all, and all work together, then all will benefit. Other States have done it, why can't we?

The Chains Are Confident, So Why Not Us Too?

Most operators of this nation's chain stores consider the current recession little more than a temporary obstacle to their expansion and sales goals—and many expect that an upturn will soon permit them to equal or surpass last year's sales. That happy observation is made by Chain Store Age, after surveying some four-dozen chains, representing virtually all fields of retailing.

As an example of this optimism, the majority of companies reported that conditions had caused no curtailment of previously laid plans to build new stores and to modernize and improve others. Only one chain has abandoned its improvement program completely. In addition, advertising and sales promotion campaigns are not being curtailed, although, naturally enough, all techniques, tools and tactics are being scrutinized to see that the advertising dollar does the most effective job possible. Many of the systems are spending more on promotional activities to reach the consumer with money to spend.

An important development from the consumer point of view is that, due to greater consumer resistance, many chains are looking for better buys in merchandise. The goal is to offer prospective buyers the best possible deal.

All of this certainly comes under the heading of good news. The volume of retail trade is an enormously important factor in deciding just how good or bad economic conditions in general are. We'll all hope that the chains' confidence proves to be fully justified.

Is Freedom A Dead Duck? Gov't Would Have It So

It is heartening to report that there has been a vast amount of protest over a ruling of the Internal Revenue Service concerning certain institutional advertising placed by the taxpaying electric utility companies of the country. This advertising, in general, has presented the private enterprise side of the power question as against the socialized power side. And the IRS said that it could not be regarded as a legitimate business expense in making tax returns.

A typical view is found in a resolution passed by the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association: "... such a ruling ... is a threat to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom to communicate, and this ruling infringes upon the constitutional rights of independent power companies, other businesses and individuals, and is a violation of the fundamental principles upon which this country was founded and which have made it flourish under economic, political and social freedom."

Editor Jack W. Gore of the Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, Daily News, reprinted that statement and added: "If the private power companies can be penalized in this fashion then any private industry, including the press, can be throttled in much the same way. In other words, the federal government can propagandize the people all it wants to and even use our own money against us to accomplish its ends. But free enterprise, threatened by government encroachment into its field of business endeavor, can't take its case to the people and treat the cost as a legitimate business expense."

If taxation can be used as a weapon to prevent the airing of the views of any business or group, we can write freedom off as a dead duck in this country.

QUERO, TEXAS, RECORD: "The public must demand more seriousness and more learning, on the part of men in public life, if better and more intelligent debate and leadership are wanted. If the public thinks that world problems can be solved, foreign policy can be developed, peace can be gained, and American security can be strengthened by platitudes, then the public will get platitudes, many of them. But platitudes will neither illuminate nor solve world problems."

CLIFTON, ARIZONA, COPPER ERA: "Congressman Sadlak, a Republican, and Congressman Herlong, a Democrat, have introduced a bill which would remove the roadblocks to the industrial expansion and research needed to create more jobs and raise living standards. Their bill would give tax relief to both individual and corporate Federal taxpayers, with a 42 per cent top for both individuals and corporations. The cuts would be made gradually over a five-year period and because normal economic growth would expand Federal revenue the Treasury would not suffer."

HARK THE HERALD

"Sheriff Arrests Six For Zymolog": And What of the Word, "Mark"

—Fred W. Luigart, Jr.—

What would you say if one day you picked up the Herald and on the front page read:

"Sheriff Arrests Six for Zymolog" You'd probably think this editor was out of his head—or that Sheriff Paul Amis was trying to pull our legs.

Actually, Paul and his deputies have made several arrests on charges of "zymolog."

If you haven't already gone to the dictionary, let's see if this definition of the mother word helps you any:

"Zymogen—Any micro organism deriving energy chiefly from ymase fermentation of carbohydrates."

Well, now that I've beaten around the bush—how many of you have guessed that "zymology" is just another word for "moon-shining". And, of course, a moonshiner would be a "zymologist." But I wonder how many moonshiners would let you call them that? They'd probably think you were cursing them out and let loose with both barrels.

Conjure up this scene:

In walks Deputy Sheriff Paul Fugate to report to Sheriff Amis:

"Well boss, I was out the other night when I got a smell of zymology—an indication that some zymogenic equipment was being operated by a zymologist. The smell was strong enough to indicate that zymogenesis had progressed quite far. Well, I dashed into the moods and trapped the zymologist. I got out my zymometer, dipped it into the zymogenic liquid—Sure enough, boss, it was MOON-SHINE!"

And sure enough, readers, if you don't think those fords are on the level—check Webster's.

And Then There's the Word, "Mark"

And while we're on words, have you ever wondered about the word "Mark" as used in conjunction with the Continental Mark automobile, or as seen used to dramatize the close of a Dragnet TV show, and has been used during the past two World Wars to designate German tanks.

While I know this comment won't matter much, one way or another to anyone, the word has little significance at all. It derives from the German "marke", and is defined as: "A designation used with a numeral, for a particular model of a weapon, machine or article of equipment."

To this definition, "Americans have added an element of 'fower' and 'prestige', so that it is now popularly interpreted to mean something 'extra-special'."

And I reckon if I write any more columns like this one, I'd better start looking for a job elsewhere.

Quoting Others

"The qualities we possess never mane us as ridiculous as those we pretend to have."—J. C. Clark.

"Cosmetics are a woman's way of keeping a man from reading between the lines."—Don Bennett.

"The age of discretion is when a man puts the small bill on the outside of his roll."—Warren Hull.

"Early to bed and early to rise, and you'll never have red in the whites of your eyes."—Jan Sterling.

And then there's this definition of an efficiency expert: a fellow smart enough to tell others how to run their business—but too smart to start one of his own!

We're Lucky; Crash Program Is Unnecessary

Research and experiment have produced a great new body of knowledge concerning the production of electricity from nuclear sources. But we have still a long and difficult way to go before the problems are surmounted.

This, in essence, highlights a report made by an appraisal committee set up by the country's investor-owned utility companies. It points out, for instance, that the known world reserves of uranium available at present prices amount to about 1 million tons. The chances of developing an additional equal amount are considered favorable. The report then says: "At present rates of power consumption with thermal reactors, this would provide all of the world's electricity for a period of only twenty years." Hence, the emphasis now is on breeder-type reactors, which produce additional nuclear fuels while operating.

Our commercial power, it is clear, is going to come from conventional sources for a long, long time. And we are lucky in those sources. We have enough known reserves of coal, for instance, to last for a thousand years or more—and we have a coal industry which can be trusted to make the best use of that huge supply. Coal is an extremely economical fuel. Modern coal-burning plants can produce electricity for about 8 mills a kilowatt-hour. By contrast, the cost at a nuclear plant which recently went into operation is 64.4 mills as much.

We're lucky in still another way. The fact that we have unlimited supplies of low-cost, high-quality coal makes a wasteful crash program of nuclear development unnecessary here.

Old Newspaper Depicts Capital In Year 1844

Frankfort, May 17—Some events of 1844 are presented in a yellowed copy of the Frankfort Commonwealth of July 2 of that year, owned by John Duvall, supervisor of benefits in the State Unemployment Insurance.

Politically, the Commonwealth, for many years one of the State's leading newspapers, was identified with the Whig party. Editor in 1844 was Thomas B. Stevenson, later editor and publisher of the Maysville Eagle. He declined appointment by President Buchanan as U. S. associate judge for New Mexico territory. Stevenson also was president of the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad.

Editorially in 1844 the newspaper vigorously supported Whigs Henry Clay for president and William Owsley for governor of Kentucky. A brief item in the July issue said Clay was a visitor in Frankfort on June 26, "in fine spirits."

Among many advertisements was one inserted by the medical department of Transylvania University.

Another advertiser was William H. Kendall, who kept a tavern at the corner of Broadway and Ann Streets, Frankfort. There patrons could obtain boarding and lodging by the year for $100, by the month for $10, by the week for $2.50, by the day for 80 cents. A single meal might be had for the magnificent sum of 25 cents.

Steamboats were plentiful on the Kentucky River in 1844, the newspaper showed. Among them was the "fine light draught" Little Ben Franklin, plying as a regular packet between Cincinnati and Frankfort. The packets Oliver Anderson, Tom Metcalfe and Bob Letcher plied between Frankfort and Louisville.

It Can Happen Again; Get Your Vaccination Now

Have you forgotten what a polio epidemic is like? Let this description of what happened in a single state, from a recent speech by Raymond H. Barrows, executive director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, refresh your memory: "People were cleaning their houses, raking up their lawns, discussing summer vacations on that warm spring day when four hospitals admitted patients suffering from high fevers and paralysis."

"Still that wasn't enough to alarm anybody. Four cases don't make an epidemic. But as May passed, the dread word 'polio' began creeping into backyard conversations. By June polio had made its presence known with smashing effect. Hospitals began frantically checking their equipment and facilities."

"July became a nightmare as the number of cases passed well over a hundred. By early August the word 'polio' blazed daily in newspaper headlines. That week 211 new cases were reported. Public gatherings were banned. Summer camps closed. Vacations were cancelled. Patients were bedded in hospital corridors. New words crept into the daily vocabulary: 'hot pack machines', 'Tornado splints', 'isolation gowns', 'iron lungs'. The National Foundation recruited 718 nurses and 81 therapists from other areas and rushed them into epidemic centers. Polio chapters spent $431,000 and the National Foundation's New York office advanced more than a million and a half.

"Volunteers gave their time and energy until the bitter end—and the end came all too slowly. Not till late September did the weekly case load drop below 100. The last case of the year was reported just before Christmas. Health authorities then totaled up the damage: 2,516 persons stricken, 143 of them dead."

That was in the state of North Carolina in 1948.

Last year, in contrast, the U. S. had no polio epidemics. To the Salk vaccine and the 65 million Americans who have been vaccinated goes the credit.

But with three out of seven Americans still unvaccinated, polio epidemics can happen again. For the National Foundation warns that paralytic polio cannot be really wiped out until every person under 40 has had his full series of Salk vaccine shots.

If you are one of those who haven't, don't take a chance. Get your vaccination now.

You could travel the world over and you would not find a better place in which to live or finer people to live with.

—JAMES W. JEWELL,
Salisbury, N. C.

ASHTABULA, OHIO, THE STAR-BEACON: "For almost 30 years, since a great depression started eroding the minds of panic-stricken men, governments have assumed more and more of the powers normally associated with the individual."

"We have reached the verge of socialism by allowing ourselves to be conditioned. It is time—past the time—for the people to be regaining their lost freedoms here at home as well as in Washington."

Revival Closes At Lothair Church

—Mrs. Sam Ferguson

A two weeks revival closed Friday night at the Community Presbyterian Church in Lothair. I believe it was one of our best meetings. The Rev. Wilson Phanton of Harvorton and Hull Churches did the preaching—about seventeen were converted and two moved their membership to this Church.

Mrs. Pearl Campbell has been very ill for a week at her home. She is now slowly improving. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Florence Campbell, of Newport, came this week to be with her. Jody Ritchie, who has been ill for several days at his home, was taken to the hospital today (Thursday). The doctors doesn't seem to know the cause of his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ferguson have had to leave their home on account of a slide at the back of their kitchen. Glomaw graduates of Dilce Combs School were, Jonis Cornett, (Button) Griffith and Jaquinn Epperson.

Our grade school had their program Monday night, with Mrs. Effie Gilbert, Principal in charge. They had eight to graduate, Norma Rice, Betty Jo Combs, Eureka Brewer, Manis Vires, Carol Ann Combs, Connie Thorpe and Loretta Feltner. The devotional was given by Mrs. Bill Brown of Lothair. The play was enjoyed by everyone.

Foster Care For Children Discussed Thursday

The Division of Children's Services foster care program was discussed by Price Back, District Supervisor of the Hazard District at the Perry County Social Service Advisory Committee Meeting held at Hazard on May 15, 1958.

Mr. Back, recounted that as was stated at the March Meeting of the Committee, the first emphasis of the Department of Economic Security is to keep children in their own homes with their own parents or relatives when possible. For children whose parents cannot maintain a home for them the Department strives toward placement in foster care according to the individual needs of each child. The Department, through its professional staff gives close supervision to children in its approved foster homes and institutions.

The Department provides for the dependent and neglected child upon the request and commitment of the child by the county court. After being given responsibility by the court the Department provides through its wide range of resources the type of care most desirable for proper growth and development of the child. This may include the utilization of boarding, free and wage home or institutions.

Mr. Back informed the Committee that the Division of Children's Service is now in the process of developing additional ways and means of increasing its foster care resources for older children. There is especially a need for homes for older children who are presently at Kentucky Children's Home and elsewhere. It has always been the goal of people interested in foster care that the supply of available homes for older children might exceed immediate demands in order to avoid keeping children in need of permanent foster homes from remaining in a boarding home or institution and uprooted indefinitely. This group may include some children with emotional problems and some whose personalities have already been damaged to a certain degree. It is believed that there must be more couples somewhere in our state who will open their hearts and homes to one or more of these children and thus know the satisfaction of providing a child with the kind of love and care that will permit the child to develop into a happy, mature adult.

Members of the local Social Service Advisory Committee are Judge J. A. Smith, Chairman, Mrs. T. D. Barker, Mrs. Kate Kimberlin, Monroe Fugate, Bruce Stephens, William B. Campbell, Rev. Charlie Deaton, Rev. Winn T. Barr and Sam Garnett.

This Committee appointed by the Governor by authority of the Kentucky Revised Statutes 205.335, serves in an advisory capacity in relation to the programs of the Division of Children's Services and the Division of Public Assistance.

The next meeting of the Committee is scheduled for June 12, 1958, at which time the Aid to the Needy Blind Program of the Division of Public Assistance will be discussed by Mrs. Wilma Combs and Mrs. Betty Rose.

Statewide Forest Fire Protection Required By 1964

Expansion of forest fire protection in Kentucky to make it statewide by 1964 will begin next Jan. 1.

A law adopted by the 1958 Legislature requires all counties to participate in the program. Under the old law, protection was given only to counties requesting it.

State Forestry Director Gene L. Butcher said the expansion will begin in heavily timbered counties having the greatest fire problems.

He said groups of such counties will be mapped out for the service. This will be more economical in putting up fire towers and in avoiding service in one or two counties surrounded for a year or so by unprotected counties, he explained.

Rate of expansion will depend upon funds becoming available. The new law retains the requirement that each county pay in the fire protection fund each year an amount equivalent to two cents an acre of privately owned timberland in the county. Counties acquire the money by taxing timberland owners. The rest of the fund comes from state and federal governments.

Mining Deaths At Record Low

Coal mine fatalities in Kentucky totaled 14 during March, a record low for the month since records have been kept, James H. Phalan, chief of the State Department of Mines and Minerals, announced.

The total of fatalities for the January-March period, Phalan added, was reduced from 135 in 1957 to 75 this year.

Phalan congratulated the coal industry and all agencies and individuals who contributed to the March record. He said: "These figures are an incentive and challenge to each segment of the industry to work even harder cooperatively to continue this downward trend of fatal accidents."

PLYMOUTH SAVES YOU MONEY ON GAS... MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY PROVES IT!

New "Fuel-Saver" Choke that helped clinch title is standard equipment on all Plymouth V-8s

Pound for pound, Plymouth uses less gasoline than either of the "other two" cars in the low-price "3"! This was proved beyond doubt when a 1958 Plymouth V-8 was officially declared winner of the low-price car competition in the 1958 Mobilgas Economy Run. Plymouth's competitors also entered cars with 6-cylinder engines (supposedly more economical) but Plymouth beat every car in its class—V-8s and 6s alike!

This title-winning Plymouth is exactly the same Belvedere V-8 with TorqueFlite Automatic Transmission that you can buy right off your Plymouth dealer's floor.

These tests prove that every Plymouth has built-in economy features not found in the "other two". For instance—one of the most important factors in Plymouth's smashing win is the new "Fuel-Saver" Choke that you get at no extra cost on all Plymouth V-8s. This ingenious device employs a triple-stage vacuum piston and a new thermostatic element to reduce the amount of fuel you use in warming up the engine. So it can save you even more on short-distance drives—the kind most people make.

Among the many other savings Plymouth gives you is the $140 you save on standard-equipment Torson-Aire Ride. The "other two" charge up to that much extra for their best suspension systems.

So if you are dollar-conscious, better hustle over and talk terms and trade with your Plymouth dealer. He wants your business, and he'll go all out to get it!
